The Cards help talk about topics that were hard to talk about before. They really help break it down into small things that are doable for the families. I have had good feedback from my families, particularly about topics which I feel like I never really got into before Cards for Connection. I feel like there is so much value in these topics that it is worth the investment.

Dr. Amy's workshop was mind-blowing. There were so many practical things that no one has ever said to me and I've never read anywhere. Too many times, speakers are too perfect and haven't dealt with any of the things they are presenting. Amy is real. My husband and I both left her training feeling empowered.
